

XVI Olinca Model United Nations 2019

Welcome Letter
March 1st and 2nd

The OLINMUN 2019 Secretariat would like to welcome you to the sixteenth edition of the Olinca Model United Nations. I am 100% committed to the great honor of being the Secretary General alongside my two Undersecretaries, Enrique Muñoz Ponce de León and Adriana Herrera Varela. In order to have an excellent model, we will arduously work with our staff members to organize the committees and topics, and thus provide a remarkable experience that will fulfill everyone's expectations.

Since its beginning, OLINMUN has always relied on innovative and audacious skills to improve the delegates' experience. Therefore, this year we have implemented new ideas and strategies in order to hold the most efficient and dynamic debates ever. To achieve this goal, we have included new committees that confront the most interesting conflicts from different perspectives. We will also have new modes of formal debates such as the round table and committees that follow the protocol of a criminal court.

During OLINMUN, junior high school and high school students will be debating about certain topics that receive scant attention but that have a crucial impact on human lives. It is of major importance that they attend to listen, propose and discuss. We are certain that each delegate will address the debate in the most respectful, appropriate, yet daring manner, considering the most important objective: to respectfully arrive at possible solutions to each conflict.

The Olinca Model United Nations is an event meant to benefit its participants by enriching their knowledge and values. Furthermore, we hope each delegate has a truly meaningful experience, whether by improving their communication skills or by creating awareness in their own community.

As the Secretary General, I am really looking forward to sharing this magnificent event with all of you.

Yours sincerely,

Andrés Osorio Leal
Secretary General 2019
